

Florida Restoration Area

Final Phase V.4 Florida Coastal Access Project – Dickerson Bay Addition

July 2022

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The fourth phase of the Florida Coastal Access Project continues restoration planning begun during Early Restoration. The preferred alternative, selected by the Florida Trustee Implementation Group (FL TIG) for funding, consists of the acquisition of an approximately 114-acre coastal parcel in Wakulla County. The purchase of the parcel would be achieved via a partnership between the FL TIG and The Trust for Public Land (TPL). TPL is a non-profit organization working to create parks and protect land for the benefit of the public. TPL will purchase the land on behalf of the Florida Trustee Implementation Group. The property will then be donated to St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge and managed as such. The Refuge will conduct minor restoration and recreational enhancements on the parcel. The Florida Department of Environmental Protection and the U.S. Department of the Interior are the Implementing Trustees for this project.
